

Housing
developers

External lighting plays a critical role in increasing peoples' sense of security in their residential surroundings.

We offer housing developers the full range of project management, consultancy, design, installation, electrical connections and maintenance services.

A lighting scheme that is well designed and reliable can make a real contribution to the safety, appearance and environmental benefits of any housing development.

With many years' experience in external lighting for housing developments nationwide, we fully understand the challenges such schemes can face – for example, Local Authority specifications and energy regulations.

We're the largest external lighting contractor in the UK and Ireland, managing around 1.5 million street lights. We're also experts in specialist lighting and related contracts from sports venues to traffic signals and CCTV solutions.

Minimising light pollution

We'll start by working closely with your chosen utility network provider to design the most effective and sustainable lighting scheme, tailor made to the needs of your housing development. Having agreed the project parameters and budget, we'll produce a schedule of works that will fit seamlessly into your development timetable.

We will use safe working methods and implement technological innovations, whilst maintaining security and safety for residents. These innovations currently include LED white light and Central Management Systems (CMS).

Nationwide coverage, local service

With a network of offices throughout the UK and Ireland, we can give you a consistent, local service with direct contacts.

Large or small, as a nationally accredited service provider we can design, install and connect external lighting schemes of any scale or complexity and maintain them on an ongoing basis.

Working together

We work for local authorities, developers and private companies, providing a full range of project management, consultancy, design, installation and maintenance solutions.

We have created solid partnerships with many regional and national housing developers, built upon honesty, openness and co-operation.

For further information on our lighting services get in touch today

 0345 070 2019  enquiries@sseenterprise.co.uk

